Easter Duty In The Hall Chapels Tomorrow.

A favor is asked of you. You are invited to make tomorrow's Holy Communion your official Easter Duty, and as a favor to the Prefect of Religion you are asked to put yourself to the inconvenience of fulfilling this duty in your hall chapel. If you find this an inconvenience, please remember that the priest who asks it has placed himself at your convenience for late reception of the Sacraments every other day of the year.

Go to confession tonight if you want to go before receiving tomorrow morning. Wherever possible, confessors will be provided for the hall chapels tomorrow morning, but since the priests on the campus have so many other duties in the morning, it is quite possible that not enough priests will be available for this work.

Off-campus..... Brownson..... Carroll.

Exception to the request in the first paragraph above is made of the students living off-campus and the groups in Carroll and Brownson Halls. They are asked to receive Holy Communion at 6:30 Mass in the church. There will be four confessors in the church during that half-hour.

The Basement Chapel Will Be Closed.

For the first time in thirteen years, there will be no distribution of Holy Communion in the basement chapel tomorrow after the 6:00 Mass.

Why You Should All Cooperate.

While it is true that all but some four hundred of the students registered at the University at the present time have received Holy Communion at least once since the first Sunday in Lent, it is also true that among the four hundred there are approximately one hundred and fifty who will have to receive special attention.

Those who are making at least partial use of the facilities Notre Dame offers for their spiritual advancement, should be glad to see their less fortunate fellow-students receive the more particular care their cases demand. If those who do not need this attention will get their names off the Easter Duty list this week - will stop cluttering the list - the others may be sent for without delay. That is the why. Does it sound reasonable?

Waiters.

For this one occasion the student-waiters are asked to receive Holy Communion in their hall chapels. If the 6:30 Mass is too late for them, there is always a 6:00.

Credit Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of Zion City, with understanding the Einstein theory -- of religion. When he arrived in New York Wednesday, after sailing round the world to prove its flatness, he tried to see Einstein to discuss with him his theory of relativity. What an unconscious sense of humor those two men have!

PRAYERS: Four students ask prayers for relatives, and two for friends who are ill. Paul Gray asks prayers for the consolation of a relative who lost an infant son. Five special intentions. Gerald Dailey and Paul J. Dufauid ask prayers for their fathers, who died recently. A student asks prayers for a deceased friend and for a relative who is ill; the relative was married outside the Church and needs prayers. Clarence Durbin's mother is ill.
