Correcting Saturday's Bulletin.

A line omitted from the Religious Bulletin of May 2 destroyed the sense of the fourth paragraph. Corrected, the paragraph reads:

Valvular insufficiency was the net result of no grades and 'study for its own sake.' The faculty was under compulsion, the students were not. Incompatibility naturally grew out of the "ill-judged and offensive" tactics of the sponsors and promoters of the College. As evidence of softening of the brain, Prof. Showerman quotes eleven of the thirty-three "interrogational profundities" he finds in the report literature of the Experimental director and his associates. For proof of spontaneous combustion we can only point to the X-marking-the-place-where-the-body-was-found in the press notices that the experiment was at an end.

(The line underscored is the one that was omitted.)

Write Out Your Own Spiritual Bouquet.

The greeting cards for Mother's Day (now on sale at the News Stand, Book Store, and Candy Store) are distinguished by a departure in form from the previous cards. No form of spiritual bouquet is given, but there is a blank page for your own message of affection and your spiritual bouquet. You may make your own selection of offerings for this purpose; the usual ones are the following: Masses said, Masses heard, Holy Communion, Rosaries, Stations of the Cross, Visits to the Blessed Sacrament, Visits to the Grotto, Aspirations, Mortifications, Hours of Study, Adorations.

To Help Seniors Make Their Novena.

Seniors attending the Senior Ball who wish to complete their Novena for Mother's Day may remain fasting after midnight and receive Holy Communion in the Sorin Hall chapel on their return to the campus. A Mass will be said there at 3:30 (the earliest hour at which Mass is permitted without special dispensation at this season of the year). Students attending this Mass will be excused from the general regulation requiring presence in their place of residence at that time, on presentation to their respective rectors of notes signed by the celebrant of the Mass.

For Bengal.

Since the report of April 28 contributions for Bengal have totalled $30.50; the total for the semester is now approaching $600. The next collection, the last one this year, will be taken up by 17. It is still possible to make up a thousand dollars for the semester.

Two Favors.

Thanksgivings are requested for two favors. The first petitioner is a student, who recovered quickly from a serious infection after a blessing with a relic of the Little Flower; his physician informed him that another patient had died rather suddenly a few days before from a similar infection. - The second is a lady, who attributes to prayer the saving of a neighbor's child. Confused by a sudden request in the middle of the night, she had given her neighbor carbolic acid instead of croup medicine; a long and strange set of circumstances enabled her to rectify the error before damage was done.

PRAYERS: Louis Brieger underwent an operation for appendicitis last Friday. Lawrence Hutter's father died Friday night. Ambrose Heady has gone to Colorado to recover his health. John F. Sullivan's mother is dangerously ill. Gus DeLooghe's mother received the Last Sacraments a few days ago. A relative of Fr. Armstrong, Alumni Secretary, and two relatives of George Seelinger are ill. An alumnus asks prayers for a friend who is quite ill. Eight special intentions.
