They Know Why.

"What is your attitude on liquor?" Some of the students who answered this question on the Religious Survey last year not only stated their attitude but gave the reason for it. Look over their replies and decide for yourself whether it is worth while.

"I hate liquor and never use it. I have seen too many fellows, young and old, go to the dogs in no time because of it."

"I like the pleasant feeling it gives one, but acts committed during intoxication far outweigh the pleasure. It should be let alone!"

"I hate it; because of liquor, the fellow I went with was killed."

"I quit some time ago and since then I have stayed out of trouble, something I couldn't say before I quit."

"The thought is abhorrent, for I was in an accident with a girl who was decapitated because of a drunken driver. I have vowed not to touch it for ten years."

"Liquor as a refreshment is O.K., but as a stimulant is very harmful. The habit of having to be pepped up with liquor before enjoying a dance is very easily formed and hard to break."

"I believe it is all right if not abused. I have learned of its evil effects from observing an older brother who is seldom sober."

"I have never acquired a liking for liquor. My brother ruined his life by the abuse of it. That has been enough to keep me free from it."

"It is all right in moderation, but it is not for these 'Fighting Irish' who cannot but go crazy when they drink."
