

Charley Hodierna improving slowly. Keep him in your Masses and Communions.

University of Notre Dame
Religious Bulletin
March 29, 1935

Gaps for Sat., March 30:
8-8:30; 8:30-9; 9:30-10;
1-1:30(none); 1:30-2:30;
2:30-3:30(none); 3:30-5.

-----
Turn Out For Rock!

To most of you Rock was an idol long before you saw Notre Dame. What about him appealed to you? His spirit?

Rock's spirit was the spirit of giving. He didn't believe in coddling self. He made few meditations on his own aches and pains. He was ever moving, thinking, working for others, mostly for Notre Dame and for Notre Dame men.

Come out tomorrow morning for Rock! Mass, main church at 6:25.

Thanks!

To John Carbine, editor of the Scholastic, to his staff of zealous assistants, to the all-important boxers and wrestlers, who made the Bengal Boxing Bouts a large success this year, congratulations and the sincere thanks of all Notre Dame men working for the salvation of souls in India.

You did a fine job. The $357 which you have turned over will be sent by Father Goodall in Washington to the men in the field. They all, you may be sure, will remember you generously in their Masses and prayers.

Am I or Am I Not?

Frequently it is said of the sober-faced, serious-minded boy that he has a vocation. Often, too, the young fellow who stays by himself, takes little interest in social affairs, is tagged early by friends for the priesthood.

But the lively boy with vigorous, normal interests--even though he has the hidden craving to consecrate himself to God's work,--is hardly ever suspected. In fact, he is sometimes thoroughly discouraged from thinking about the priesthood.

Yet St. Augustine, St. Paul, St. Ignatius, and a host of other great priests, certainly didn't look like perfect prospects from the outset!

Any young man who has a strong desire to do the work of the priest or brother, who has at the same time the necessary physical, intellectual, and moral qualifications, may consider himself a candidate.

He himself will know whether he has the strong desire. He should consult his confessor or some other priest regarding his qualifications.

Prayer to the Holy Ghost--this is essential to ascertaining the vocation. During Lent pray much and think and seek advice on this most important question.

Strange As It Seems.

There is only one hall on the campus that has had a 100% attendance at both Mass and Holy Communion since the beginning of Lent. The residents of that hall are not religious, not seminarians. Can you name the hall?

Next Tuesday, April 2, is the day set apart to make your Easter Duty together in your own hall chapel. Even if you have been to Communion already during Lent, go, everybody, again Tuesday morning! And bring a slacker with you!

PRAYERS: Deceased, father of Wm. Wipf (Dillon); brother of Armand Kellogg; friend of Bill Kioly (Brownson). Ill, mother of John Doyle; niece of Harry Becker; cousin of Jim Hamilton. Six special intentions.