Why Anti-Catholicism?

Richard Reid, Laetare medalist of 1936, and editor of the Weekly Bulletin of the Catholic Laymen's Association of Georgia, will analyze anti-Catholicism in his first lecture in Washington Hall Monday night.

Mr. Reid in this talk, the first of a series of five, will trace the "Popess Joan" myth and similar fables, showing how generations of misrepresentation have been built up against the Catholic Church.

The Laymen's Association of Georgia operates on the assumption that, since mis-information is behind the anti-Catholic attitude, real information is the antidote. The work of the Laymen's Association in furnishing information to their neighbors in Georgia is one of the outstanding achievements in modern American apologetics.

If you are interested in knowing how to deal successfully with anti-Catholicism, hear Mr. Reid in his series of lectures starting Monday night at eight.

To Bengal: $545.99.

Paul Foley, editor of the Scholastic, has turned over a check for $545.99, net proceeds of the Bengal Bouts. Gross returns amounted to $926.42. Expenses (including treatment of one injury) reached $380.43.

To Paul Foley and his assistants on the Scholastic; to the trainers, boxers, and wrestlers; to the crowd who supported the show, heartiest thanks of all in the Bengal field. We, as intermediary, do not speak with the unction of final recipients, but we do know that those Bengal missionaries need money; and this is a substantial gift. There will be fires of gratitude burning in many hearts when the gift comes home.

P.S. Thanks, too, to the Chicago Club for $50.27, turned over to Bengal from their Easter Dance.

And Speaking of Money.....

The Chesterton Memorial Fund (for a monument to G. K. Chesterton in his hometown) now amounts to $77.40. We shall keep the Fund open until the end of the year. Readers of the Bulletin who would honor the memory of G. K., please hurry in your donations.

PRAYERS: (deceased) aunt of Dan Monaghan (How.); uncle of Richard (Ly.) and Jack (How.) Anton; cousin of Arch Gott (Wal.). Ill, aunt of Rev. T. J. Mackin (Alumnus); friend of Tom Walker (Mor.); two friends of Joe McEniry (S.Eds.). Three special intentions.
