

7:20 Mass in Dillon,
Tues-Wed-Thurs. for
E.J.Murray's brother.

University of Notre Dame
Religious Bulletin
September 19, 1938

Mission Mass Mon. for Leonard Casassa; Tues.
for Coleman Hails.

We Mean It.

Thanks a lot, men, for the teamwork. Yesterday you distributed yourselves just about perfectly at all the Masses and everybody had a seat: all because the freshmen stayed away from the 10:00. They have caught the spirit of living for Others in a hurry. It's going to be a great year.

The morning papers didn't note it, but Notre Dame scored her first fall victory yesterday. It was won by a single, steady drive down the centre aisle of Sacred Heart Church. If you could have felt the thrill the priests around here felt as they watched the old procession toward the Rail again, you would never miss a day.

And, say, congratulations to the local K. of C. Their ushers kept things running smooth: no pell-mell rush but edifying reverence all through Mass, especially at Communion time.

Still there was one jam. Five tedious, but consoling hours of Stop-and-Go, as hundreds of you headed through the Traffic Box of Mercy, starting early for the Mission, trying to avoid the rush. Red meant danger: sin and its occasions. Green stood for hope and happiness ahead.

You only heard the priest say, "Ego te absolvo." But he also said: "Stop: pride, envy, avarice, lust. Go: humble, mended, contrite hearts. Go, make a fine mission."

Reformation.

The early part of the Mission is God's flashlight searching the innermost chambers of the heart, penetrating even to unspoken desires.

The latter part of the Mission is the Master's Voice, recorded in conscience, singing: "All is well."

Oftentimes the "in-between" part of the Mission is a wholesome dose of good advice from the priest in the confessional. To overcome specific sins, you need specific remedies. Sometimes you need help about "occasions." Ask the priest. That's what he's ordained for.

Where To Find Him.

(First Mission) Evenings

Fr. O'Hara
Fr. Carey
Fr. Grimm
Fr. Lynch
Fr. Gartland
Fr. Healy

Gospel Alcove
Epistle Alcove
Epistle Transept
Gospel Transept
West Main Entrance
East Main Entrance

Mornings

Fr. T. Burke
Fr. Hope
Fr. Grimm
Fr. Lynch
Fr. Gartland
Fr. Healy

Also: mornings, 7:20 to 10:00, Howard & Cavanaugh Chapels; till noon in Dillon. After supper, in Dillon and Basement. After the mission, 3:00 to 10:00, Dillon, Howard and Cavanaugh.

George Is Calling You.

"Everything depends on the operation coming up Saturday morning. The first one wasn't so tough but the second stage is worse. Please remember me in your prayers."

George Belting, '34

PRAYERS: (deceased) uncle of John Sheehan. Ill, father of Bill McDonald (Cav.).