Mass Sat. in Howard

Stan Weigel (Walsh).

-----
Dear Young Lady In Detroit:

The Bulletin hopes your compliment can be paid to everyone reading your lines:

After going with a Notre Dame boy for four years (he graduated last June), I have come to think of Notre Dame as the best there is. There is something about your boys, Father, that makes them stand above all others. I think it is their attitude toward us girls. They respect us. They expect high standards. We have to strive to meet them. The source of this remarkable devotion is Our Lady at the Grotto. I know, because it is my favorite campus spot. Every time "the one" and I go to Notre Dame we make a visit there.

(The Novena for Chastity is private. Simply offer up nine consecutive Masses and Holy Communion for the grace to be pure. You might say the Memorare or visit the Grotto.)

Three Topnotch Men Leave Us.

Dom Virgil Michel, Benedictine, edited Oratio Fratres, liturgical magazine and was, besides, "cut-in-front" as a Catholic social thinker. Three weeks ago he participated in Notre Dame's symposium on politics and philosophy.

A famous Franciscan home-missioner and author, Father Fulgence Meyer, gave you Plain Talks On Marriage and Safeguards Of Chastity, both widely used on the campus.

And the Dominican Friar, Michael Ripple, was co-organizer of the Holy Name Society, largest Catholic group in America. For them, the 7 & 10 Masses next Sunday.

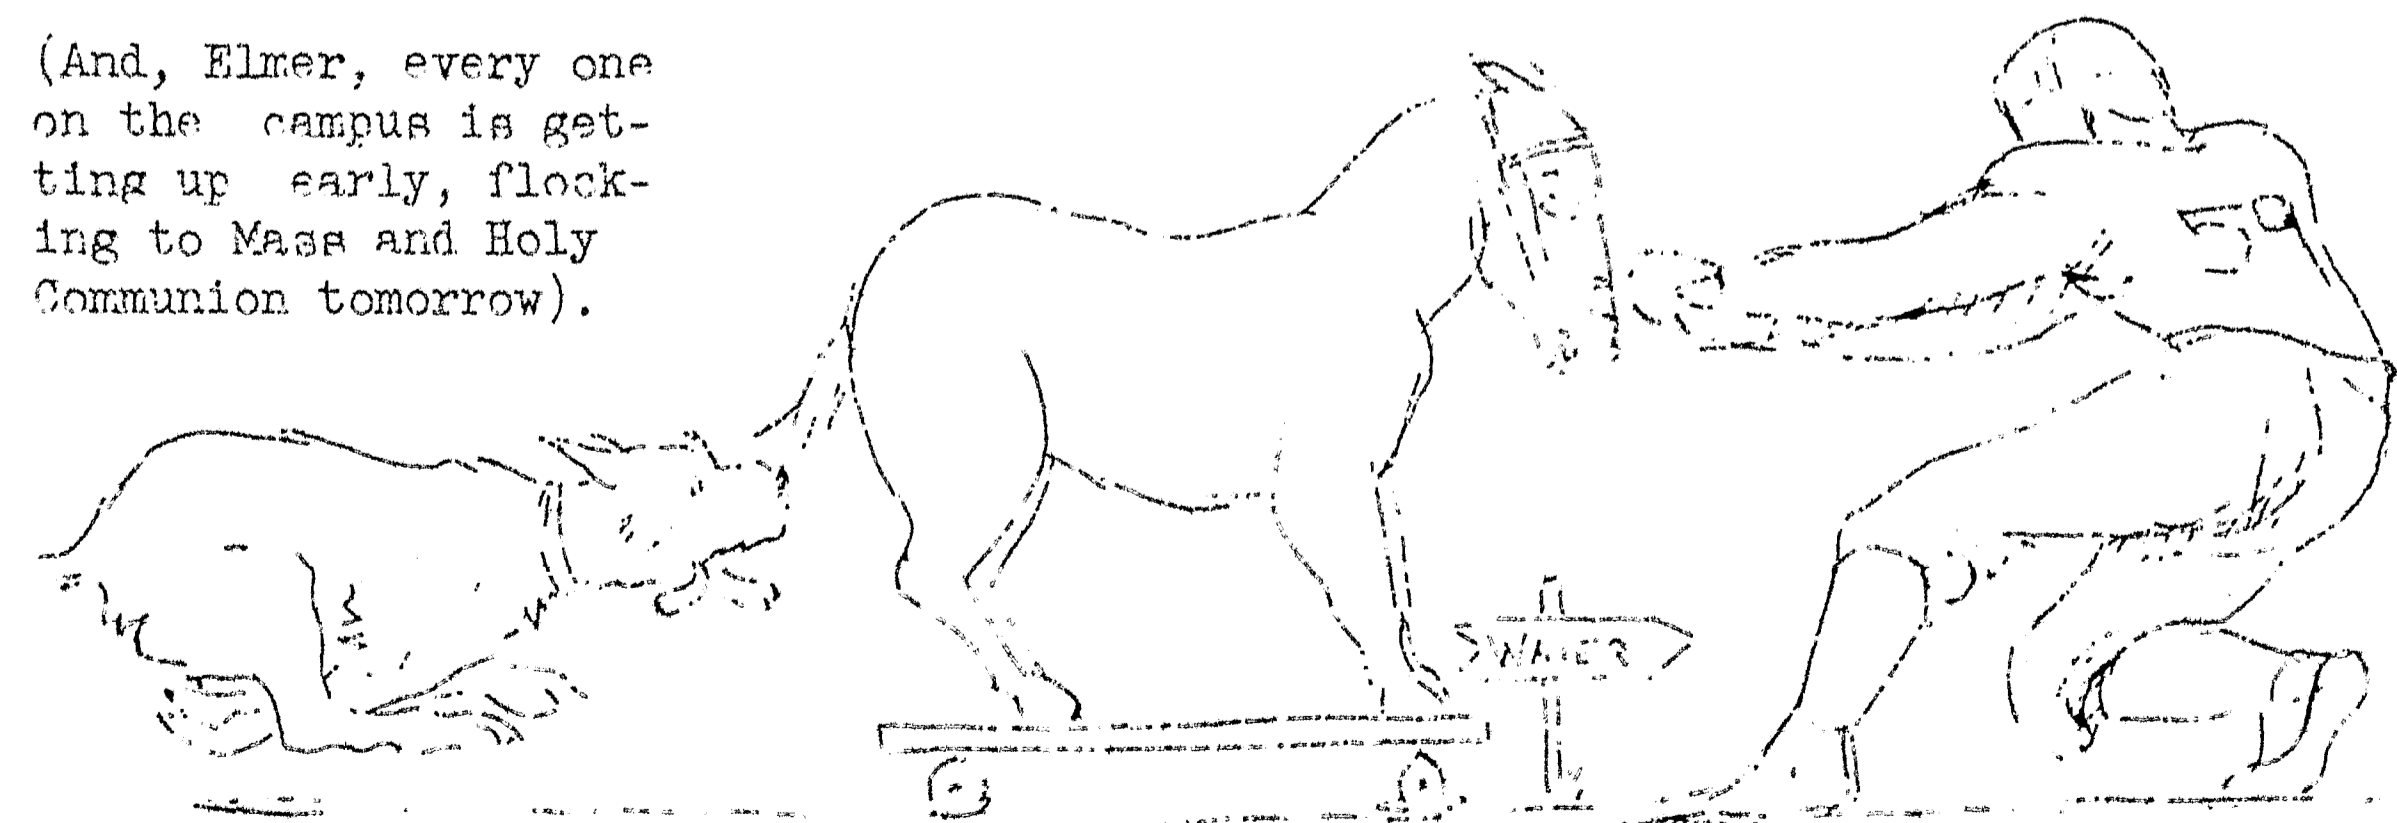

NOTE: RETURNS FROM THE "DOVE" CHRISTMAS CARDS WILL BENEFIT TWO STUDENTS & THE MISSIONS.

Dear Elmer:

In a little Ohio town tonight, three Daughters of Erin are wishing you luck for tomorrow, praying "the boys" will come through.

In a town like ours, where there is a Catholic minority, not a little prejudice, and a struggling Catholic High School, Notre Dame means very much to us. It is not merely a school with winning football or basketball teams; it's almost a symbol of our Faith. It's hard to put it in words, but a triumph for Notre Dame is a triumph for us.

(And, Elmer, every one on the campus is getting up early, flocking to Mass and Holy Communion tomorrow).

F.S. The number of those who sacrificed will be wired to the team before game time.
