Flesh-And-Blood Thriller.

First telegram: PASSED EVERYTHING. I AM ERCKE. LOVE. HARRY.
Second telegram: CONGRATULATIONS. SO AM I. LOVE. DAF.

Twenty-Three Cents.

Last week at the six o'clock Mass twenty-eight students contributed twenty-three cents. Proportionately the other Masses ran the same, maybe a little better. Don't get spoiled. If you were cut in the parishes (you know it, too) you would hear a real sermon on the ecclesiastical precept of supporting the pastor.

Seriously, keep in mind the purpose of the Sunday collections here. The third Sunday's income is set apart for the Bengal missions. Rest of the month goes to the pamphlet racks to help defray expenses there. Last year the four racks in Dillon, Howard, Scrin and Cavanaugh went in the red several hundred dollars. Many of you will confess running off with encyclicals or "Dorothy's Divorce" with the idea of contributing always the next time. Too often the next time never comes round.

Lost And Found.

Apply at 107 Cavanaugh for: fountain pen minus cap, Missal in French, orange rosary beads of the Little Flower in brown leather case, also black beads in black case, and several other pairs of beads found on the campus. And, aha, a Studebaker key!

Apply at 117 Dillon for: green hat left in the chapel. Surrounded with mystery.

Missing: from the Howard library Allers' "What Man Has Made of Man," and from Cavanaugh Sargent's "St. Thomas More" and Archbishop Goodier's "Saints For Sinners."

AVE MARIA this week gives first place to "The Position of the Catholic Fictionist" (not so high and mighty we learn). Half-price (5¢) in Prefect of Religion offices.

The Cavanaugh Hall Library.

One hundred twenty five volumes going full swing. Hours daily except Sunday, 7 - 10 in the morning and 7:30 - 9:45. Sundays, after the second benediction till 9:45.

Books may be taken out for two weeks, gratis; renewable for another two weeks unless called for by someone else. Fine for overdue books strictly enforced: two cents a day, Sunday included. . . Dillon and Howard branches withering under the new competition. Put if you want sterner stuff, drop around and ask Fathers Grimm and Lynch.

Tip-Top Of The Week.

Exams are all ancient history now. Result: editor and assistants come out again with the Scholastic. Long live the articles reviewing current Catholic magazines. Keep up the good work. Nice going too for Scrip: Cunningham's appreciation of Mauriac the man and his "Life of Christ," well done. Mauriac's "Viper's Tangle" is on hand in Cavanaugh and Howard, his "Life of Christ" in the Dillon library.

Our Old Friend.

In Reader's Digest this month under "Tatter" Christopher Jaget-Mayhew, Oxford debater travelling here observes: "I have made the important discovery in this country that a 'jitterbug' is not an insect, but a human being acting like one." Thanks, Chris.
