Extra Special.

You are about to begin the Novena for a Happy Marriage. The Holy Family will gladly help you. You have Our Lord in the Mass, at Holy Communion, and all day every day in the Adoration Chapel. You have His Mother at the Grotto. And you are dedicating the Novena to her most chaste spouse, St. Joseph.

You have a special gift coming to you from the Bulletin: in printed form the sixth reprinting of Father O'Hara's old-time series, now famous with alumni, "How to Prepare for a Happy Marriage." You will want to keep these words of wisdom and talk them over with the girl-friend. (Eight printed Bulletins. The series is liable to interruption).

Besides the Holy Family and this special series, you have yourselves. Jesus, Mary and Joseph will watch over you till the moment of your death, in every trial and joy. The Bulletin will always try to show you what is right and wrong and point the way. But you have yourselves. And you are the ones who are thinking of marriage. You are the ones who are to pray and to fit yourselves, in body and mind, for that great day.

It's a big proposition. Don't try to face it without the Holy Family. And try to get all you can from Father O'Hara's hints and helps and his humor.

Catholigetics.

You never saw the word before. It was coined in St. Paul. Catholigetics is just what you need, especially booklets 5 and 7 called "Marriage Quizzes to a Street Preacher" and "Birth Prevention Quizzes to a Street Preacher."

What kind of preacher? A street preacher, one who talks Catholic doctrine, explains and defends it from the top of a soap box. You can bet the questions asked and answered are practical when they are picked up on the curbstone from Joe Public.

The soap-boxer has to be on his toes when the non-Catholic lady down the block steps up and says: "What do you mean, it's wrong? I'm already the mother of two, my husband is on W.P.A. and . . . well, that's all." *** Then some dashing co-ed with a brain in her head and a Catholic boy on the string comes looking for information. He either couldn't or wouldn't answer her questions. "It isn't fair no matter what way you look at it. Why do ALL the kids have to be brought up Catholics? You people think you're the only Church on the earth." One hostile heckler in the midst of the crowd yells, "You're darn tootin', lady, them Catholics is narrer."

Father Charles Carty who did a great job popularizing RADIO REFLIES, the broadcast question box of an Australian Sacred Heart Missionary, is the priest behind this new series, "Catholigetics." "These are all VEST POCKET BOOKLETS," he says, "of 25 or more pages of material packed with a bite, a punch, and weighted with compact information. There is no verbosity and prolonged tracts to read before getting to the meat and kernel of theology in the answer. Street preaching has proved that people prefer quiz form to lecture form-- the naked truth in a few words without the trimmings of wasted narrative form." There are ten titles at ten cents each, 100-- $6; 1000-- $40. Order from Cathedral Press, St. Paul, Minnesota.

There are lots of good things coming out of St. Paul these days. For a cross-section of the best Catholic writing in the press and magazines, all you have to do is grab ahold of THE CATHOLIC DIGEST. The current number offers you plenty to think about. It's the spirit of (the Apostle) St. Paul campaigning for Christ in the northwest.

THOUGH YOU ARE DISPENSED FROM THE FAST, THERE IS NO DISPENSATION FROM DOING PENANCE.
