A GREAT PAIN
RIGHT
HERE

Are You Among These?

1. The cannibals who drop malted milk and ice cream cartons on the walks and lawns. Keep the campus clean.
2. The women-haters who refuse to offer their seats to ladies on a crowded bus. Be polite and thoughtful.
3. The bench hogs who take the end seat in the chapel pew and make everyone else climb over them.
4. The sinners who come late to Sunday Mass. It won't be so funny in Purgatory.

Worried? Troubled? Upset?

St. Paul had troubles once. He was on his way to the city of Damascus to persecute the Christians. Our Lord appeared to him and struck him from his horse. As Paul lay on the road he asked Christ what He wanted done. Our Blessed Lord did not give him an answer, but told him to go into the city to a certain house where he would learn God's Will from a man.

God works that way -- through others. Your worries may be cleared up if you consult a priest. He has experience to support him and the grace of state to direct him. A short chat with him will clear up family problems marriage difficulties and other personal matters. If your difficulty is not solved within twenty-four hours, see a priest.

Maybe your trouble is sin-trouble. The place to rid yourself of that is in the confessional -- tonight. To delay confession is not going to improve the situation. Get the load off your chest and you will study better and sleep more soundly.

Hangover.

One evening in October
When I was far from sober
And dragging home a load with manly pride,
my feet began to stutter,
So I laid down in the gutter
And a pig came up and parked right by my side.
Then I warbled: "It's fair weather
When good fellows get together."
Till a lady passing by was heard to say:
"You can tell a man who boozes
By the playmates that he chooses."
Then the pig got up and slowly walked away.

Easter brought another vacation. Was it the same old story -- too much gin? If drink is an occasion of sin for you, you must give it up. Talk it over with your confessor. Maybe you need the pledge, for a time, at least.
