First Friday Confessions
tonight at night prayer,
in Sorin and in Cav.

Three Reasons Why . . .

you should make a half-hour period of Adoration tomorrow, First Friday.

Confidence. The exam jitters may be creeping up on you. A restful period of intimate conversation with Christ on the altar will restore trust in His help and in your own native ability to tackle a problem with peace of mind.

Inspiration. Are you undecided about your future? Should you give up school, or get married this summer, or get a new girl, or give up drinking altogether this summer because of your weakness? Our Blessed Lord will help you reach an answer that will be best for your soul. But you've got to get on your prayerbones and ask for help.

Reparation. Christ has a heart. You have hurt him by your sin and indifference to his blessings. He wants you to undo your injury by a special manifestation of love. The bigger your sins the more determined you should be in appearing at Adoration.

A Slap On The Back -- Very Low And Hard.

Do the fellows who whistle at girls on the street
Have a sister they love and respect?
Have they mothers at home who are gentle and sweet
And whose honor they dearly protect?

You can hardly imagine a fellow well bred
Who would stoop to insulting a girl;
It would make a real fellow see nine shades of red
To be classed as a moron or churl.

Yet it possibly happens that fellows forget,
Not intending the things that they do;
And they'll probably know that they owe you a debt
If they get a reminder from you. (T.E.B.)

Have You Made Your Easter Duty?

In ten days the Easter Communion period closes. All Catholics are obliged to approach the Communion rail before this period ends. Those who do not fulfill this obligation commit a mortal sin. If you are delinquent, go to confession today and Communion tomorrow. If you know of someone who is delinquent, encourage him to see a priest in the confessional without delay.

Seriously Ill.

Jack Schneider, ROTC, was taken to the hospital yesterday with a ruptured appendix. Your prayers will take him out of danger and hasten his recovery.
