

Solemn opening of school University of Notre Dame Provision made for their late year, 8:30 Mass, Sunday. Fresh- Religious Bulletin breakfast. . . The President, men requested to attend. . . September 14, 1951 Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, preaches;

Pause Reverently.

There was one vacancy in the registration line Wednesday. Mr. William Foley, Sr., Vancouver, Washington, writes: "I regret to inform you that my son Harold, as the result of an auto accident which occurred, August 18, in which he was instantly killed, will be unable to resume his studies at Notre Dame. . . I appreciate the courtesies you have extended him and regret he will not have the privilege of returning."

As this new scholastic year opens, Notre Dame pauses reverently to pray for Harold Foley, for the father of Bill Streater who died on the golf course Wednesday, and for all other members of the Notre Dame family, their relatives and friends.

"You Know Not The Day Nor The Hour."

Upperclassman Mission Sunday Night.

Chaplain (Major) Francis L. Sampson, '37, will conduct the Mission for upperclassmen, which will begin promptly Sunday night at 6:45, and run for three successive nights. The morning Mass and brief instruction are at 6:20.

Father Sampson, well known as the "Paratrooper Padre," joined the Paratroopers in 1942 and has been with them continuously. . . Twice he was captured by the Germans. . . was liberated by the Russians after six months in a prison camp. . . Wounded twice in action he has been much decorated by the governments of the United States, France, Belgian and Holland. . . After ten months front-line duty in Korea, he has been stationed at Notre Dame by the Army for one year's study.

While a freshman is a freshman--which means that his group conduct is fairly predictable--it seems to us that this year's class has already shown the distinguishing characteristic of willingness. They have packed the church for their Mission, morning and evening. Wednesday ten confessors were kept busy for quite some time after Benediction. Thursday morning 933 received Holy Communion. . . "A little child shall lead them," says Holy Writ. Lead whom? Upperclassmen who have trouble getting their spines and heads together.
(NO 9 O'CLOCK MASS SUNDAY. UPPERCLASSMEN KINDLY STAY AWAY FROM THE 8:30.)
