Your Blood; Not Your Life.

Some one asked if he could give two pints of blood--if the Red Cross could take one pint out of the left arm, why not another pint out of the right. It doesn't work that way. One pint every two months is a maximum donation.

The students pushing this blood-donor drive claim that if 200 more pledges are turned in, the donor rate will be the highest of any other college campus.

Juniors On Parade.

The 9 o'clock high Mass Sunday will be for the juniors and their guests. The pews down the middle aisle will be reserved until 9 a.m.

Those who attend this Mass are asked to participate in the singing. Congregational singing of the Mass is one of the better ways of making the Mass a corporate act of worship.

Missals A-Plenty.

The daily missal is the one to buy. Take your time--learn to pray the Mass with the priest. The student chaplains have a good deal cooking for your benefit--a good missal buy at half the price. Once you learn the know-how of the Mass, you will not attend Mass without your missal.

Communion Under Both Species.

The same conditions for Holy Communion under one species must be had for Holy Communion under both species: the state of grace, a good intention, fasting from midnight.

The 9:30 Mass tomorrow morning in Sacred Heart Church will give you the opportunity to receive under both species. Make it a point to drop into the Main Church tomorrow and observe the Mass celebrated as it will be according to the Byzantine Slavonic Rite.

In an area that is the entire surface of the earth, in a spiritual communion that includes 400 million Catholics, we may well expect to find variety; but it is a variety which, blending harmoniously, becomes beauty. Leavened or unleavened bread, communion under one or both species, differences of tongue, liturgical action or chant, do not detract from identity of faith. They are norms and disciplinary prescriptions, not dogma. -- Archbishop Cicognani.

Time Flies One Hour Faster.

Masses Sunday will be as scheduled: 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 o'clock. THIS WILL BE DAY-LIGHT SAVING TIME. So set your watches, alarm clocks ahead one hour. Daylight Saving Time begins officially at 2 a.m. Sunday morning.

Each year the question is asked about the Eucharistic fast. You may follow Standard Time or Daylight Saving Time. If you follow Standard Time for the fast, you may eat or drink until 1 o'clock Daylight Saving Time. This does not hold true when the place where you are is not on Daylight Saving Time. Nor does it hold true during the other days of the school year when we (at Notre Dame) are not on Daylight Saving Time.

Anniversary Mass Monday morning 7 o'clock for Mr. Frank Lloyd, former comptroller of the University, in Morrissey chapel.

Prayers: (deceased) Patricia, 20-year-old sister of Charles Patterson; mother of Jim McGuire; Ernest F. Haberkern, '33 (leaves wife and 5 children), 11 special intentions.
